Dismiss Court Martial Ordered Against Butler

AGREEMENT IS DENOUNCED BY WEST REPUBLICANS

MARINE HEAD GIVEN REPRIMAND, ORDER OF PRESIDENT

THIS MORNING MAJOR GENERAL BUTLER RESUMED COMMAND AT QUANTICO

PRESIDENT DECIDED AGAINST A COURT MARTIAL AFTER LENGTHY CONFERENCES

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1931, by United Press)

Washington, Feb. 9.—Court martial proceedings against Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler were dismissed by direction of President Hoover himself, the United Press learned today.

The president on Saturday instructed Secretary of Navy Adams to withdraw charges against Butler and issue a reprimand instead, an authoritative source said. This action was formally announced by Adams on Sunday and this morning the marine general resumed command of his post at Quantico, Va.

The president decided against court-martialing Butler after lengthy conferences Saturday with Major Henry Leonard, counsel for Butler, it was learned.

Adams' letter to Butler, reprimanding the general for making remarks derogatory to Premier Mussolini of Italy, was drawn at a conference Sunday with Leonard, Butler, and two other lawyers representing Butler, Col. Jesse F. Dyer and a representative of Roland S. Morris, former ambassador to Japan who was to have been chief attorney at the trial in Philadelphia next week.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Plans for court-martialing Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler of the U. S. marine corps were abandoned on the initiative of the administration, it was learned today.

For several reasons the highest officials of the government decided it was unwise to go through with the court-martial. General Butler, of his part, finally consented to be a "good soldier" and enter the arrangement.

This sudden collapse of what promised to be one of the most spectacular military trials in American history caused a sensation in Washington and was a subject of discussion everywhere. The abandonment of the court-martial was regarded as being as unprecedented as the original decision itself.

Most important for the government's international relations, the cancellation of the trial removes the possibility of a public spectacle in which would enter the question of the accuracy of statements that Premier Mussolini of Italy ran over a child with his automobile and went on without giving aid.

It was learned today that the government, through state and commerce department attaches in Italy made a thorough investigation of the story which Butler in his speech at Philadelphia last month had told about the incident. All of these reports came back to Washington agreeing that there was no truth in the story.

Rome, Feb. 9.—Official circles declined to comment today on the dropping of court martial proceedings against Gen. Smedley Butler, saying that as far as Italy was concerned, the incident was closed with Secretary of State Stimson's apology to the Italian government.

Campus Liquor Situation at Kansas University Probed

Lawrence, Kan., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Individual fraternities of the University of Kansas will meet tonight to formulate reports on the campus liquor situation which has attracted the attention of college and state authorities.

Chancellor E. H. Lindley said the university would continue its investigation and take immediate action.

Attention was focused on drinking among students here by the arrest of six youths, two of whom were fraternity members, admittedly transporting liquor to a party.

Former Postmaster General New Wishes to Testify

Washington, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Former Postmaster General Harry S. New today wrote to Chairman Blaine of the senate committee investigating leases of post offices requesting that he be permitted to appear before the committee and give his version of matters which have gone into the evidence taken by the committee.

The committee has heard a variety of testimony containing charges or implications of irregularities in leasing post offices during the time that New was postmaster general.

CLAIM HE KILLED HIS WIFE, LEFT BODY ON THEIR DOORSTEP

Chicago, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Charles Micelli, 35, was charged today with killing his wife and leaving her body on their doorstep all night while he slept.

Chief of Detectives John Norton said Micelli had confessed killing Frances Micelli, 30, his wife, because he believed she had been going out with other men on nights when she told him she was working.

Micelli himself had not worked for two years. Mrs. Micelli was shot and killed as she arrived home, supposedly after working until 1 a. m., and her body lay until morning outside the door.

CLEVELAND FACES GREATEST MURDER MYSTERY IN YEARS

BODY OF FORMER COUNCILMAN WILLIAM E. POTTER FOUND WITH HEAD BATTERED

PISTOL BULLET FIRED BEHIND RIGHT EAR, EMERGED FROM HIS FOREHEAD

Cleveland, O., Feb. 9.—(UP)—A blonde woman and a modishly attired man, both dressed in black, were sought today as possible principals in Cleveland's greatest murder mystery in years—the blotting out in court on a perjury charge this morning.

A general police alarm was sent out for "Rarin" Bill, or William E. Potter, as the former councilman was also known, late yesterday. He had not been seen since Tuesday, when he appeared in the famous "statesmen's window" at city hall. Potter had been reported missing when prosecuting authorities tried unsuccessfully to find who would represent him at his perjury trial.

An hour after the police alarm, the superintendent of an apartment house in the Parkwood Drive section telephoned police that lights had been burning day and night for four days in one of his newly rented apartments.

A police squad battered down the door. On a davenport facing the entrance to the living room lay "Rarin" Bill's body, the head battered. A pistol bullet had been fired behind the right ear, and had emerged from the forehead.

It was some time before anyone suspected that the body was that of Potter—45 years old, red haired and a fighter who boasted as a bricklayer that he rose from newsboy, and as a politician that he rose from bricklayer.

Potter had been tried three times, and acquitted, on charges growing out of land fraud scandals that disrupted the local republican machine. Two men went to prison on the charges. One of them, Liston G. Schooley, Jr., is to be paroled tomorrow, despite his refusals to "talk" even after 22 months behind bars. Schooley's father is serving a five to ten year sentence.

There was suspicion that Potter, due to appear today for the fourth time on charges growing out of the land frauds, had threatened to tell all he knew concerning several politicians for whom the Schooleys reportedly "took the rap."

On January 28, a man, dark, expensively dressed in black, and apparently some ten years younger than "Rarin" Bill, rented the Parkwood Drive apartment. On Tuesday a blonde young woman, dressed in black and described by police as "very attractive," called upon the lessee of the apartment, known as "M. J. Markus," a chain store district manager.

No one knows when or how "Rarin" Bill came to the apartment, but it is believed he was killed there Wednesday, probably because someone in high local political circles feared Potter would tell what he knew about graft conditions in the city.

Seeks to Delay Paying Motor Vehicle License

St. Paul, Feb. 9.—(UP)—A bill seeking to set payment of motor license fees back to March 14 from Feb. 15 was introduced in the house today by Rep. Dewey W. Johnson, Minneapolis.

Coincidentally Rep. Johnson appeared as co-author with Rep. E. J. Chilgren, International Falls, on a measure which would reduce penalties for non-payment of license fees. Present penalty is 25 cents per day for 10 days.

The change would make the limit four days at 25 cents per day. There would be no change in the charge after that, which is set at $1 per month in both instances.

2 Investigations Into State Appointments, Bank Taxation Discussion in Legislature

PROMISES BUSY WEEK IN THE PRESENT SESSION

OPPOSITION ARISES AGAINST CONFIRMATION OF F. A. DUXBURY

GOVERNOR OLSON HAD NAMED HIM AS STATE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSIONER

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Two investigations into state appointments and possible discussion of bank taxation, one of the most troublesome questions before Minnesota's legislators, promised today to cause one of the busiest weeks in the 1931 session. Liberal senators led by Gerald A. Mullen of Minneapolis began organization today of the arguments which they will present against confirmation of F. A. Duxbury as state industrial commissioner. Duxbury's appointment will furnish material for the first of the investigations.

A formal bill of complaint will be filed tomorrow against Duxbury and the following day the senate committee on banks and banking will begin consideration of charges which have been made against J. N. Peyton of Duluth, who was appointed banking commissioner 10 days ago by Gov. Floyd B. Olson.

His appointment was excluded from a list of five names sent by Governor Olson to the senate for confirmation as state officials. The charges against Peyton are that a Duluth national bank with which he is connected refused to pay state taxes.

Meanwhile, six bills containing plans to settle the problem of national bank taxation approached close to actual consideration.

The bills were dropped at the conclusion of the 1929 legislature session after many federal banks voluntarily agreed to continue paying state taxes for two years. Recently, however, the bankers have announced the agreement is terminated and they will refuse to continue paying the taxes.

The bankers have insisted that the question of whether they are to pay state taxes must be settled. Plans for settlement are contained in the six bills, which were drafted by an interim tax commission.

Sponsors of the series of bills say they will overcome legal objections to the present Minnesota tax on federal banks, which was held invalid by a court decision in 1921. The banks agreed during the 1921 session to continue paying the state tax and the agreement lasted until 1929.

The tax commission worked out the series of bills to meet a federal law which says that bank taxes shall not be higher than taxes on other monied capital coming in competition with the banks.

Bankers have declared, however, that the six laws will not remedy the present muddled situation regarding taxation. Even if the series of laws is passed, it has been said, court cases to test their validity may be instituted.

WINTER "HEAT" WAVE IN STATE IS TERMINATED

MINNESOTA, DAKOTAS AND THE NEIGHBORING STATES GET TOUCH OF REAL WINTER

GENERAL PRECIPITATION IN MIDWEST HALTED BY FALLING TEMPERATURES

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 9.—(UP)—General precipitation throughout the midwest was halted today by falling temperatures which terminated also a winter "heat" wave in Minnesota, the Dakotas and neighboring states.

Predictions were, however, that the lower temperatures would prevail only for a short time and would provide no more than a lull in a winter which thus far has been one of the mildest on record.

Snow, which varied from flurries to heavy falls in the various areas and which had halted today by falling temperatures which terminated also a winter "heat" wave in Minnesota, the Dakotas and neighboring states.

Enough moisture fell, it was said, to improve greatly conditions in states where there have been water famines, but many inches of snow would be necessary to bring conditions back to normal.

In southern Illinois, where it has been necessary to ship water into many towns, light rains had little effect upon the streams, but served to replenish wells and reservoirs and aided some in getting farm lands ready for spring planting.

Mild temperatures continued to prevail yesterday throughout the country. The coldest section was Yellowstone Park, where the maximum was 28 and the minimum 4 above zero.

The week-end rain and snow was not general in any area of the country, but fell in scattered sections. Heavy rains fell in some places, Little Rock, Ark., and Cairo, Ill., being the two wettest spots with 1.62 and 1.84 inches of rain respectively.

2 BURGLARS ARE KILLED IN A FIGHT WITH CHICAGO POLICE

Chicago, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Two burglars were killed in a battle with police today after they had broken into a cigar store. A companion was captured.

The dead are George Dertochine, 28, and Roy Walsh, 28. Edward Wolfe was captured.

7 COAST GUARDSMEN AND 3 FISHERMEN SAVED FROM DEATH

HAD DRIFTED ON AN ICE FLOE TO PINEHURST, N. Y. FROM BUFFALO

SAVED AT DAWN BY GUARDSMEN WHO TRAMPED ACROSS ICE SHELF

Pinehurst, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Seven coast guardsmen and three fishermen who had drifted on an ice floe in Lake Erie since rescue attempts were disrupted last night by a broken line, were taken from the floe today. The men were rescued by guardsmen who had set out from shore at dawn to trudge some six miles across an ice shelf to reach the floe.

Petoskey, Mich., Feb. 9.—Two army planes from Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, were awaited today to take up the hunt for George Kruskie, Cross Village fisherman, who floated into Lake Michigan Friday when the ice broke up.

MAGIE FILES APPEAL IN SHERIFF CONTEST

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Frank L. Magie, sheriff of St. Louis county for a number of years, today filed an appeal to the state supreme court from a mandamus hearing last week in which his office was granted to Emil Erickson.

The action today prevented District Judge Bert Essler from taking any action against Magie for his refusal to vacate his office as ordered by the court.

Magie contends that Erickson is not eligible to hold office because his American citizenship is in question.

DOGS ATTACK HERD OF THREE GOATS

St. Paul, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Lammert Uken, an aged couple who lived mostly on milk supplied by their little herd of three goats, today looked mournfully for new animals to establish another herd. Two dogs last night slipped through the gate after Uken had milked the animals and tore them to pieces. The commotion brought Uken out and he called police. Two officers were attacked by the dogs and shot the animals to death.

Volstead is Gradually Improving at Hospital

Minneapolis, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Andrew J. Volstead, father of the prohibition enforcement law which bears his name, was reported in a satisfactory condition today by his physicians.

Volstead underwent an emergency operation at Fairview hospital Thursday after being brought here from his home in St. Paul.

Doctors said they had not yet decided when Volstead would be able to leave the hospital.

Indians Felled by Police in Riots

This picture, taken at Karachi, India, shows a scene following the disturbances quelled by police charge. More than 2,000 were reported injured in the rioting. Arrows point to two of the victims of the disturbance lying prostrate in the street with the police standing guard in the background. Spectators are ministering to the injured man at the right.

3 MEN BURNED TO DEATH WITH HORSES IN OAKLAND SHOW

Oakland, Calif., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Three men were burned to death today and an unknown number of horses destroyed when fire swept through the stables of the Oakland horse show.

Firemen believed all the thoroughbred stock in the stables perished. The show had concluded Saturday and many owners had already moved their stock from the stables.

The men killed were stable employees.

Oakland, Calif., Feb. 9.—(UP)—A fourth body, a man who had been burned beyond recognition, was found today by firemen in the cooling ruins of the Oakland horse show stables.

"MODERNISTIC" ANNUAL JUNIOR BALL AT THE U.

SOME STUDENTS LIKE THEIR PARTIES WITH PLENTY OF SPLENDOR AND SWAGGER

REVOLTERS WILL GO TO THE "COMMON PEOPLE'S BALL" ON SAME NIGHT

By HILLIER KRIEGBAUM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Students at the University of Minnesota who like their parties with splendor and swagger will attend the "modernistic" annual junior ball on Wednesday night.

Those who like their parties plain and simple and with just a faint flavoring of homeliness will join the revolvers' "Common People's Ball" on the same night. They either don't want to or won't borrow dress suits and formals to attend the "J. B." the formal dance chairman would have everyone know.

Those who don't like parties won't go to either.

Richard Orff, chairman of the revolvers' ball, announced those who will be admitted first for the common people's ball will have:

1. A ticket (this is essential).

2. Uncombed hair.

3. Dirty shirt, preferably the wearer's own.

Arrival by "exclusive" street car service rather than taxicab. (If the couples can prove they walked to the Minnesota Union where the ball will be held, it won't count against them.)

"Anyone found arriving by taxi cab will be expelled from the ball—if we find out about it in time," Orff explained today.

Slightly soiled clothes, clean enough to be worn but not dirty enough to be objectionable, are at a premium for the ball's slogan is "Be Yourself."

The cost of the "J. B." includes a ticket, $10, new dress $35, taxi $5, flowers $4, incidentals $6. Total $60.

The cost for the common people's ball is ticket $1.50, street car fare both ways $30. Total $1.80.

President Hoover Had the Same Pew as Was Occupied by Lincoln

Washington, Feb. 9.—(UP)—President Hoover occupied the same pew used by Abraham Lincoln during the civil war era when he attended services at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday morning.

Customarily the president attends religious services at the Irving Street Friends meeting house each Sunday, but Mr. Hoover took this means of observing Lincoln's birthday, which falls on Thursday.

Men Fined for Seeing a Nude Dance Performance

New York, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Two hundred and seventy-eight men, arrested during a nude dance performance at "the Hillside Democratic club" in Jamaica were augmented in the court room scene that followed by at least that many shocked, angry, and tearful wives, sweethearts and mothers who got wind of the affair. The men paid $1 fines, cafeteria fashion.

Seek Aid of St. Christopher to Prevent Auto Accidents

New York, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The aid of St. Christopher has been invoked by a Roman Catholic church to prevent auto accidents. Sixty motor cars were blessed formally in the saint's name and sprinkled with holy water outside the church of the Holy Family which celebrates a "motorists mass" every Sunday.

AGREEMENT DOES NOT PROVIDE SPECIFICALLY FOR FOOD LOANS TO FARMERS

NO PROVISION FOR RELIEF OF UNEMPLOYED AND FAMILIES IN URBAN CENTERS

By LYLE C. WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 9.—(UP)—A program of night sessions and party action with respect to the soldier bonus and drought relief was tentatively worked out today by a senate republican caucus.

Majority Leader Watson said the caucus had discussed only the three matters. The republicans agreed tonight sessions would be resorted to after tonight if the legislative situation warrants. The holding of a single night session tomorrow had been agreed upon previously.

Washington, Feb. 9.—A group of democrats and republicans combined today in a whirlwind campaign to smash the drought relief compromise agreed upon by President Hoover and the regularly constituted house and senate leaders.

Independent western republicans denounced the agreement. Democrats have been less open so far with their opposition. But several have intimated their intention to join today with Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, in challenging the agreement entered into by Minority Leader Robinson.

The attack is based upon two facts:

1. The agreement does not provide specifically for food loans to needy farmers.

2. No provision is made for relief of needy unemployed persons and their families in urban centers.

Republican and democratic leaders are confident they can withstand the coalition assault from within their own ranks. Majority Leader Watson said he would summon a party caucus today to speed up the appropriation program once the relief question is out of the way. Today and tomorrow probably will be consumed in relief debate.

If the compromise agreement prevails, there still will remain the question of approving salary increases, provision for which also has been made in the interior department bill which is to carry the $20,000,000 relief appropriation. Opposition to this project centers in the house.

On the fate of this legislation depends whether there shall be an extra session of congress. All party leaders have promised to expedite the bill and thus avoid an extra session after March 4.

The insurgent republican group in general and a few democrats want an extra session. Among them, they have suggested a dozen projects which they deem of sufficient importance to require congress to meet again in the spring.

These include the anti-injunction bill, the lame duck amendment to the constitution, Muscle Shoals legislation, the world court, railroad legislation and bills to regulate the interstate flow of power, communications and bus traffic. The weakness of the extra session group is that all of them are not agreed on identical programs.

The question of authorship appeared today to have become one of the factors obstructing the path along which the compromise veterans relief bill appeared to be proceeding toward congressional approval.

Politics and partisan jealousy are partly responsible for the sudden rift among republican congressional leaders over the compromise to increase the limit of loans on adjusted service certificates from 22 1/2 to 50 per cent, at a cost of $900,000,000.

Republicans on the house ways and means committee have begun to resent the wide publicity given to Owen D. Young, author of the bonus plan, particularly since the New Yorker is mentioned as a possible 1932 opponent for President Hoover. They believe that credit for authorship of the plan should go to Rep. Bacharach of New York, a republican, who has been active in the bonus debate.

CHICAGO EVENING POST IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

Chicago, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The Chicago Evening Post, an afternoon newspaper, was placed in receivership before Judge Denis E. Sullivan in superior court today and its continued publication was authorized.

George F. Getz, wealthy coal dealer and sportsman, was named receiver after the Arthur Dixon Transfer company had obtained judgment on a small claim.

John C. Shaffer, owner and editorial director of the Post for 30 years, announced his withdrawal Saturday, without explaining what disposition would be or had been made of his interest.

SAVED AT DAWN BY GUARDSMEN WHO TRAMPED ACROSS ICE SHELF

Pinehurst, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—Seven coast guardsmen and three fishermen who had drifted on an ice floe in Lake Erie since rescue attempts were disrupted last night by a broken line, were taken from the floe today. The men were rescued by guardsmen who had set out from shore at dawn to trudge some six miles across an ice shelf to reach the floe.

Petoskey, Mich., Feb. 9.—Two army planes from Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, were awaited today to take up the hunt for George Kruskie, Cross Village fisherman, who floated into Lake Michigan Friday when the ice broke up.

MAGIE FILES APPEAL IN SHERIFF CONTEST

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—Frank L. Magie, sheriff of St. Louis county for a number of years, today filed an appeal to the state supreme court from a mandamus hearing last week in which his office was granted to Emil Erickson.

The action today prevented District Judge Bert Feeler from taking any action against Magie for his refusal to vacate his office as ordered by the court.

Magie contends that Erickson is not eligible to hold office because his American citizenship is not in order.

DOGS ATTACK HERD OF THREE GOATS

St. Paul, Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. Lammert Uken, an aged couple who lived mostly on milk supplied by their little herd of three goats, today looked mournfully for new animals to establish another herd. Two dogs last night slipped through the gate after Uken had milked the animals and tore them to pieces. The commotion brought Uken out and he called police. Two officers were attacked by the dogs and shot the animals to death.

Volstead is Gradually Improving at Hospital

Minneapolis, Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—Andrew J. Volstead, father of the prohibition enforcement law which bears his name, was reported in a satisfactory condition today by his physicians.

Volstead underwent an emergency operation at Fairview hospital Thursday after being brought here from his home in St. Paul.

Doctors said they had not yet decided when Volstead would be able to leave the hospital.

Indians Felled by Police in Riots

This picture, taken at Karachi, India, shows a scene following the disturbances quelled by police charge. More than 2,000 were reported injured in the rioting. Arrows point to two of the victims of the disturbance lying prostrate in the street with the police standing guard in the background. Spectators are ministering to the injured man at the right.

3 MEN BURNED TO DEATH WITH HORSES IN OAKLAND SHOW

Oakland, Calif., Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—Three men were burned to death today and an unknown number of horses destroyed when fire swept through the stables of the Oakland horse show.

Firemen believed all the thoroughbred stock in the stables perished. The show had concluded Saturday and many owners had already moved their stock from the stables.

The men killed were stable employees.

Oakland, Calif., Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—A fourth body, a man who had been burned beyond recognition, was found today by firemen in the cooling ruins of the Oakland horse show stables.

"MODERNISTIC" ANNUAL JUNIOR BALL AT THE U.

REVOLTERS WILL GO TO THE "COMMON PEEPL'S BALL" ON SAME NIGHT

By HILLIER KRIEGBAUM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—Students at the University of Minnesota who like their parties with splendor and swagger will attend the "modernistic" annual junior ball on Wednesday night.

Those who like their parties plain and simple and with just a faint flavoring of homeliness will join the revolters "Common Peepul's Ball" on the same night. They either don't want to or won't borrow dress suits and formals to attend the "J. B." formal dance chairman would have everyone know.

Those who don't like parties won't go to either.

Richard Orff, chairman of the revolters' ball, announced those who will be admitted first for the common peepul's ball will have:

1. A ticket (this is essential).
2. Uncombed hair.
3. Dirty shirt, preferably the wearer's own.
4. Arrival by "exclusive" street car service rather than taxicab. (If the couples can prove they walked to the Minnesota Union where the ball will be held, it won't count against them.)

"Anyone found arriving by taxi cab will be expelled from the ball—if we find out about it in time," Orff explained today.

Slightly soiled clothes, clean enough to be worn but not dirty enough to be objectionable, are at a premium for the ball's slogan is "Be Yourself."

The cost of the "J. B." includes a ticket, $10, new dress $35, taxi $5, flowers $4, incidentals $5. Total $60.

The cost for the common peepul's ball is ticket $1.50, street car fare both ways $30. Total $1.80.

President Hoover Had the Same Pew as Was Occupied by Lincoln

Washington, Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—President Hoover occupied the same pew used by Abraham Lincoln during the civil war era when he attended services at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday morning.

Customarily the president attends religious services at the Irving Street Friends meeting house each Sunday, but Mr. Hoover took this means of observing Lincoln's birthday, which falls on Thursday.

Men Fined for Seeing a Nude Dance Performance

New York, Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—Two hundred and seventy-eight men, arrested during a nude dance performance at "the Hillside Democratic club" in Jamaica were augmented in the court room scene that followed by at least that many shocked, angry, and tearful wives, sweethearts and mothers who got wind of the affair. The men paid $1 fines, cafeteria fashion.

Seek Aid of St. Christopher to Prevent Auto Accidents

New York, Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—The aid of St. Christopher has been invoked by a Roman Catholic church to prevent auto accidents. Sixty motor cars were blessed formally in the saint's name and sprinkled with holy water outside the church of the Holy Family which celebrates a "motorists mass" every Sunday.

AGREEMENT DOES NOT PROVIDE SPECIFICALLY FOR FOOD LOANS TO FARMERS

NO PROVISION FOR RELIEF OF UNEMPLOYED AND FAMILIES IN URBAN CENTERS

By LYLE C. WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—A program of night sessions and party action with respect to the soldier bonus and drought relief was tentatively worked out today by a senate republican caucus.

Majority Leader Watson said the caucus had discussed only the three matters. The republicans agreed night sessions would be resorted to after tonight if the legislative situation warrants. The holding of a single night session tomorrow had been agreed upon previously.

Washington, Feb. 9.—A group of democrats and republicans combined today in a whirlwind campaign to smash the drought relief compromise agreed upon by President Hoover and the regularly constituted house and senate leaders.

Independent western republicans denounced the agreement. Democrats have been less open so far with their opposition. But several have intimated their intention to join today with Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, in challenging the agreement entered into by Minority Leader Robinson.

The attack is based upon two facts:

1. The agreement does not provide specifically for food loans to needy farmers.
2. No provision is made for relief of needy unemployed persons and their families in urban centers.

Republican and democratic leaders are confident they can withstand the coalition assault from within their own ranks. Majority Leader Watson said he would summon a party caucus today to speed up the appropriation program once the relief question is out of the way. Today and tomorrow probably will be consumed in relief debate.

If the compromise agreement prevails, there still will remain the question of approving salary increases, provision for which also has been made in the interior department bill which is to carry the $20,000,000 relief appropriation. Opposition to this project centers in the house.

On the fate of this legislation depends whether there shall be an extra session of congress. All party leaders have promised to expedite the bill and thus avoid an extra session after March 4.

The insurgent republican group in general and a few democrats want an extra session. Among them, they have suggested a dozen projects which they deem of sufficient importance to require congress to meet again in the spring.

These include the anti-injunction bill, the lame duck amendment to the constitution, Muscle Shoals legislation, the world court, railroad legislation and bills to regulate the interstate flow of power, communications and bus traffic. The weakness of the extra session group is that all of them are not agreed on identical programs.

The question of authorship appeared today to have become one of the factors obstructing the path along which the compromise veterans relief bill appeared to be proceeding toward congressional approval.

Politics and partisan jealousy are partly responsible for the sudden rift among republican congressional leaders over the compromise to increase the limit of loans on adjusted service certificates from 22½ to 50 per cent, at a cost of $900,000,000.

Republicans on the house ways and means committee have begun to resent the wide publicity given to Owen D. Young, author of the bonus plan, particularly since the New Yorker is mentioned as a possible 1932 opponent for President Hoover. They believe that credit for authorship of the plan should go to Rep. Bacharach of New York, a republican, who has been active in the bonus debate.

CHICAGO EVENING POST IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

Chicago, Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—The Chicago Evening Post, an afternoon newspaper, was placed in receivership before Judge Denis E. Sullivan in superior court today and its continued publication was authorized.

George F. Getz, wealthy coal dealer and sportsman, was named receiver after the Arthur Dixon Transfer company had obtained judgment on a small claim.

John C. Shaffer, owner and editorial director of the Post for 30 years, announced his withdrawal Saturday, without explaining what disposition would be or had been made of his interest.

BRAINERD
25 Years Ago

February 9, 1906

William Bergh, for a long time a resident of this county, having lived on Gull Lake near Smiley, has decided to launch in business in Brainerd, and has taken a lease of the big store room on the ground floor of the Imperial block. This store will be stocked with a full line of staple and fancy groceries, and Mr. Bergh states he will be in the field with as good an emporium as there is in the city. Mr. Bergh is well known for his business ability and has been prominent in the affairs pertaining to Crow Wing county for a long time. He ran for county commissioner at one time, but was defeated.

Mrs. Hannah Hawkins, mother of J. F. Michael, Patrick and W. R. Hawkins, is close to death's door at St. Joseph's hospital. The old lady was taken sick some time ago and was moved to the hospital and finally has become so weak that death is hourly expected. J. F. Hawkins is here from Bemidji and the other sons are expected to arrive tonight or tomorrow.

Martha Leslie, better known as "Mother" Leslie, died at the county poor house yesterday afternoon at the age of 89 years. The old lady has been an inmate there since 1904. She died of old age. She has one son who works for J. A. Long in one of the Cross Lake camps and he has been notified of the death.

E. B. McCullough, who has been so long with the Brainerd Lumber company, has accepted a position with the Lamb Hardwood Lumber company, of Memphis, Tenn., and expects to take the position on May 1. Mr. McCullough will not move his family there for the present, but will wait and see if he likes the location and the position. Mr. McCullough has been one of Brainerd's leading business men for a long time and his decision to leave the city will be generally regretted.

Lutheran Brotherhood
The Brotherhood of the First Evangelical Lutheran church will meet in the church parlors on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. O. C. Johnson, state food and dairy inspector, will speak. All our men should attend. John Holvik and August Lind will entertain.

Eastern Star Meeting
The regular meeting of the Eastern Star will be held this evening at the Masonic hall.

UNIFORM FLAVOR IN COFFEE DEPENDS UPON THE ROASTING

Hills Bros. Insure Uniformity by Their Patented, Continuous Process

Coffee experts agree that blend alone, regardless of quality, will not produce a perfect cup of coffee. In the roasting of the blend lies the secret of perfect flavor.

The common method of roasting coffee in bulk falls short in developing flavor, because it is not possible to roast every berry evenly. Realizing this, Hills Bros., after years of experimenting, discovered and patented a continuous process of roasting coffee a little at a time.

Control is the watchword of this process. The quantity of coffee passing into the roaster does not vary. The speed of operation and temperature remain the same with the result that Hills Bros. Coffee is absolutely uniform. This process, fittingly called "Controlled Roasting," gives a flavor in the cup that no other coffee has.

Hills Bros. Coffee never "goes stale" because it is packed in vacuum cans. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh because air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is inside. By the vacuum process, air is taken out of the can and kept out. Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere by grocers. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

BRAINERD 25 Years Ago

February 9, 1906

William Bergh, for a long time a resident of this county, having lived on Gull Lake near Smiley, has decided to launch in business in Brainerd, and has taken a lease of the big store room on the ground floor of the Imperial block. This store will be stocked with a full line of staple and fancy groceries, and Mr. Bergh states he will be in the field with as good an emporium as there is in the city. Mr. Bergh is well known for his business ability and has been prominent in the affairs pertaining to Crow Wing county for a long time. He ran for county commissioner at one time, but was defeated.

Mrs. Hannah Hawkins, mother of J. F. Michael, Patrick and W. R. Hawkins, is close to death's door at St. Joseph's hospital. The old lady was taken sick some time ago and was moved to the hospital and finally has become so weak that death is hourly expected. J. F. Hawkins is here from Bemidji and the other sons are expected to arrive tonight or tomorrow.

Martha Leslie, better known as "Mother" Leslie, died at the county poor house yesterday afternoon at the age of 89 years. The old lady has been an inmate there since 1904. She died of old age. She has one son who works for J. A. Long in one of the Cross Lake camps and he has been notified of the death.

E. B. McCullough, who has been so long with the Brainerd Lumber company, has accepted a position with the Lamb Hardwood Lumber company, of Memphis, Tenn., and expects to take the position on May 1. Mr. McCullough will not move his family there for the present, but will wait and see if he likes the location and the position. Mr. McCullough has been one of Brainerd's leading business men for a long time and his decision to leave the city will be generally regretted.

Entertain at Chicken Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Sunde entertained at a chicken dinner at their home, 915 Southeast Eleventh street, on Sunday evening. Covers were laid for ten. The evening was spent in a social way.

Eastern Star Meeting
The regular meeting of the Eastern Star will be held this evening at the Masonic hall.

UNIFORM FLAVOR IN COFFEE DEPENDS UPON THE ROASTING

Hills Bros. Insure Uniformity by Their Patented, Continuous Process

Coffee experts agree that blend alone, regardless of quality, will not produce a perfect cup of coffee. In the roasting of the blend lies the secret of perfect flavor.

The common method of roasting coffee in bulk falls short in developing flavor, because it is not possible to roast every berry evenly. Realizing this, Hills Bros., after years of experimenting, discovered and patented a continuous process of roasting coffee a little at a time.

Control is the watchword of this process. The quantity of coffee passing into the roaster does not vary. The speed of operation and temperature remain the same with the result that Hills Bros. Coffee is absolutely uniform. This process, fittingly called "Controlled Roasting," gives a flavor in the cup that no other coffee has.

Hills Bros. Coffee never "goes stale" because it is packed in vacuum cans. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh because air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is inside. By the vacuum process, air is taken out of the can and kept out. Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere by grocers. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—The leaders in the Big Ten basketball race, Northwestern and Minnesota, meet for the first time this season at Evanston tonight.

If Minnesota can halt Northwestern's winning streak, the Gophers will tie the Wildcats for the lead and make the race a wide open affair. Indiana, which was handed an unexpected defeat by Purdue Saturday night, can also get back in the running by winning from Iowa at Bloomington Monday night, provided Northwestern loses.

Riding the crest of a five-game winning streak, Northwestern can make a long stride towards the championship by defeating Minnesota, victorious in four out of five games. A victory would give Northwestern a two-game lead over its closest rival and nothing less than a complete reversal of form could keep the Wildcats from the title as five of their seven remaining games are against second division teams.

There are seven games scheduled this week, with every team in action except Michigan and Ohio State. Northwestern has a pair of games, playing Chicago at Midway Saturday after meeting Minnesota tonight.

If the Wildcats can annex these two games it seems fairly certain that they'll win the cage title. The Purple quintet has already defeated Chicago, Illinois and Ohio State, which will be met in return games. The two hardest games appear to be with Minnesota as the other two are against the admittedly weak Iowa five.

Last Week's Big Ten Results

Northwestern 31; Chicago 16.
Purdue 30; Indiana 23.
Minnesota 36; Iowa 14.

General roughness unchecked by Referee Woock made a cage game at the Crosby Armory Sunday afternoon more like a football encounter.

A final quarter rally by the Brainerd Russell Creamery quintet fell short and the Crosby Inland Rangers left the floor winners by a 28 to 24 count.

Immediately at the close of the battle Manager Lester Peterson made arrangements for the playing of a return game at the Brainerd high school Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Brainerd scored five points in the first quarter, two in the second, four in the third and 13 in the fourth. Crosby chalked up two points in the first, 11 in the second, seven in the third and eight in the last.

"You are Fighting the Battle of the Health Commissioners"

Says

DR. RUSHMORE LAPE

Health Officer, Fair Haven, Vermont

...one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Lape's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. Lape writes: "Your advertisements attacking spit-tipped cigars have my commendation."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it... Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Gentlemen:

More and better health to you in your fight against the spitting evil. Your advertisements attacking spit-tipped cigars have my commendation. You are fighting the battle of the health commissioners in striving for better sales of your non-spit-tipped cigars. I am not interested in your specific product. I am interested in public health. That is why I am writing you. You can publish this letter if you care to.

Very sincerely,

Capital Punishment

THE Detroit Lakes, Minn., Tribune argues in favor of capital punishment and presents this statement of the case, as they see it:

Return of capital punishment to Minnesota is sought in a bill now before the state legislature. Persons guilty of first degree murder in the state would be executed by hanging under the proposed measure. Capital punishment was abolished in Minnesota in 1911. Several attempts have been made since to restore it to the statutes, but all efforts have failed. The last move was made and defeated four years ago. It is rather difficult to understand why legislators should be so reluctant about a capital punishment bill. When a criminal murders a citizen in cold blood, he should pay for his crime with a death penalty. Criminals can now commit murder and know that the worst they can get is a life sentence, providing they are apprehended. Then, there is also the chance of parole after serving a number of years, and the possibility of escape from the prison walls. With a death sentence hanging over his head, a criminal will think a second time before he commits the extreme crime of taking a life. He values his own life just as highly as any respectable citizen, and will hesitate to sign his own death warrant. It is time for us to get hard-boiled in the matter of prosecution of criminals. We have become so lenient that lawbreakers and murderers are using the state as a rendezvous. The penalty should fit the crime, and therefore, no one who murders in cold blood is entitled to the retention of his own life.

License the Drivers

BOTH branches of the Minnesota legislature now have the bill requiring all drivers of automobiles to have licenses which can be taken away from them if they are reckless.

And the legislature has very few measures more important than this—none, indeed, that relate to public safety, says the Duluth Herald.

Very properly, the bill trusts little to examinations of applicants for licenses, and much to the effects of the threat of revocation that will hang over every careless driver.

Everybody who is driving now will be given a license on application.

But the bill provides that licenses shall be revoked for conviction of manslaughter resulting from operating a motor vehicle, for driving while drunk or under the influence of drugs, for making false affidavits in applying for licenses, for conviction of any crime reckoned a felony under motor regulation laws, for conviction of dangerous or reckless driving, or for failure to stop after an accident.

Though these provisions may seem severe, they are none too severe. Nobody guilty of any of these offenses is fit to be trusted at a wheel. Anybody convicted of any of them should be taken away from the wheel, either permanently or for a period graded according to the gravity of the offense.

If this bill is passed, there will be more careful driving in this state, and therefore fewer accidents.

Curtis M. Johnson Named Collector

CURTIS M. JOHNSON of Minneapolis, active in the Schall campaign and who visited Brainerd at that time, has been named collector of customs for the port of Duluth and Superior.

Mr. Johnson was president of the state fair board and served as one of its members. In 1924 he was a candidate for the republican nomination for governor, running against Theodore Christianson. Originally from Rush City, where he was head of a hardware firm and also had one of the largest farms in the neighborhood, he was later in life insurance business in Duluth and took a great interest in civic matters there. About two years ago he left for Minneapolis.

The appointment surprised Duluth which had pinned its hopes on a local man.

Why Go South for the Winter?

"WHY go south for the winter?" writes Miss Alma Niska to the Dispatch from Detroit, Michigan.

"We were very much interested in seeing our 'old home town' carrying a front page item in the Detroit News, and it may interest you, so am enclosing the clipping."

The clipping referred to a recent winter item about pansies growing in a backyard, lilac trees budding, girls playing tennis, boys shooting marbles, men pitching horseshoes.

And after its publication it snowed in Brainerd.

Value of Enthusiasm

HENRY CHESTER has well said that "enthusiasm is the greatest asset in the world. It beats money and power and influence. Single handed, the enthusiast convinces and dominates where wealth accumulated by a small army of workers would scarcely raise the tremor of interest."

"Enthusiasm tramples over prejudice and opposition, spurs inaction, storms the citadel for its object like an avalanche, overwhelms and engulfs all obstacles. It is nothing more or less than faith in action."

New Sales Tax Bill Before the Senate

A NEW form of a gross sales tax has been formulated in the bill of Senator R. T. Buckler of Crookston, introduced in the senate last week. It provides for a tax of two-tenths of one per cent on the gross sales of all retail stores doing a business of more than $60,000 a year.

It follows the lines of an occupational tax, resembling in principle the tax on iron ore mining.

AMERICA in general is pleased with the decision to abandon a proposed court martial of Major General Smedley D. Butler and to give him a reprimand instead.

JAMES E. MARKHAM, deputy attorney general, has ruled that April 22 will be the last day of the present session of the Minnesota legislature.

GIRL UNAFRAID BY GLADYS JOHNSON

After the Storm Comes Sunshine.

HE took his hat and walked from the room without another glance at the woman watching him venomously from the divan.

A relief—to be out in the sunshine and fresh air. He threw back his shoulders. He drew deep breaths as he plunged down the hills.

A wearying business—and distasteful—this playing god-of-the-machine.

Something of the first fine edge of courage with which she had taken this headlong plunge deserted Ardeth after the first few days.

Often in the weeks which followed she would find herself standing, her hand creeping to her throat in the old childish gesture of fright, her eyes large and dark. Once, when she was sweeping the pine needles from the porch, the brown road, the long files of pines standing motionless in the morning sunshine, overwhelmed her with a sudden sense of unfamiliarity.

Another time, she awoke in the middle of the night to hear the rain pouring on the cabin roof. She had been sleeping so soundly that for a moment she lost track of her surroundings; she fancied herself back in the flat with the Harrisons. The window was in the wrong place. . . Surely there was no window there. . . But must have moved the bed to a different position when she cleaned the room today. . .

Reality

Through the open door she could hear Ken turn restlessly and the present rushed in with stabbing recollection. It was true. . . no wild romantic dream after all. She was up here with Ken. . .

In such moments she could not whip up the proud defiance. Faintness passed like a cold wind through her. She smothered her face in the pillow and cried.

But in the morning—waking to the long shafts of sunshine quivering through the pines. . . breathing deep of the tingling air, there was no room in her heart for fear or unhappiness. The dream still held her.

On Ken, as well, was dawning the sense of reality. It was the rat of worry gnawing his heart in secret. The realization of Ardeth's sacrifice rushed in on him at moments, making his heart leap. He wanted to shout in panic that she must go away—at once. A glorious, reckless thing to do! A dreadful, impossible, splendid thing—but she must go away for her own sake! Oh. . . too late. Too late in the scornful eyes of the world.

He blamed himself bitterly and futilely as he lay awake in the dark. All very well to rant against narrow-minded critics, but now he had delivered this girl he loved to their mercies. They would tear to pieces the impulsive generosity of her. They would search her sweet frankness for ignoble motives. Soiling the fineness of her as hot fingers can bruise delicate petals. . .

When she appeared in the doorway of his room in the morning, a gay little greeting on her lips, his heart would ache in secret. Dressed in the plain aprons of pink or blue gingham which she had bought in the mountain store, her hair damp and combed into loose waves of dark gold, she looked like a good little girl freshly primed up for school.

He had hurt her. . . he had hurt her. . . the knowledge beat through his thoughts like a doleful bell.

As Ken grew stronger the note of tenderness in their relationship deepened.

For long hours now he sat on the porch in the morning sunshine or lay in the afternoon shadow of the cabin where the hill sloped away to a brown trout stream. Ardeth was always nearby, up of the books. Tom faithfully sent up every week.

Ken was still thin, but there was a coat of tan now on his face and hands and the haggard look had left his eyes. He was very gay and bantering when he talked to her. They had adopted the laughingly belligerent pose of children who bashfully strive to conceal their true feelings.

Love Suppressed.

Ken never kissed her now. Once when their fingers met both drew sharply back as though the contact had burned. Ardeth was startled to a little nervous laugh. Her eyes fluttered up to the man's, fell away when she saw that he was watching her with eyes gone deep and intense.

The next moment they had themselves in hand. They were laughing at the antics of "Grumpy," the tame bluejay who had adopted them for the sake of the dinner crumbs. But there was a strained note to the laughter and in a moment the girl slipped away to the house on a pretext.

How long could they play the role? she was asking herself. frightened. How long—when she was so tinglingly aware of Ken in every drop of her blood? When his mere touch could rouse such shivering gladness in her heart?

She became rebellious and unhappy. She hated the murmur of the pines. They became the scandalous whispers of the women who had haunted the Smokerie in the old days. Futile, trivial women like Jeanette—like Maida Duvant. . . women half alive—poured into conventional molds. She raised her face in the sunshine and grimaced at them. Then she broke into startled laughter.

At Ken's questioning glance she exclaimed: "I'm growing foolish up here in the mountains, Ken. Pretty soon I'll be answering my own questions, like the old prospector who went by here the other day talking to himself."

But there was no answering smile in the man's eyes. He had guessed her thoughts.

One day, as she stooped to draw the collar of his robe closer about his throat when they moved to the afternoon shadow, the man's reserve broke. She was suddenly in his arms, her head against his breast, eyes looking almost fiercely into eyes.

"Where's it going to end, darling?" she spoke through set teeth. "What are we to do when I'm well and we leave here?"

The pretext of camaraderie dropped from them like a cloak. "I don't know, Ken," she whispered. "I've wondered" . . .

Now that the fat is in the fire—with us up here together," he said, and she could not even laugh at his unpunctual simile. She was suddenly the reckless, generous giver. "Others have done it—I mean real people—people who care enough to defy the world. We'll go far away. We'll work together—we'll manage somehow."

Happiness Earned.

"Ah, we've earned our happiness, dear!"

He held her face between his thin brown hands and regarded it a little sadly. A sweet, vital thing, tenderly colored. . . easily hurt. . . He shook his head. "Can't get away with it, honey. We're not the kind to go sneaking about the world. What a mess it is. . ."

She drew away, trembling. Silence fell like a curtain between them. A curtain neither of them dared to lift.

Ardeth tried to think of trivial things—the sensible little tasks of every day which were small anchors holding her safe. Prunes for breakfast to be set to soak. A list of things to buy from the store down the road. She must go down there—there would be small waiting for them. It was the day for Tom's letter, for methodical Tom wrote twice a week regularly. Long, careful, rather solemn letters. . .

A long legal-looking letter for Ken and a fat one from Tom for herself.

She read it as she walked back from the store along the brown dirt road. Singing silence of the mountain afternoon about her, broken only by the scolding of the jays and the whirring insects. Now and then a jeweled flash as a bluejay swooped from a pine tree with a rush of wings.

Then sunshine and pines and the ribbon of road were receding to a great distance and the mountain stillness seemed to buzz with voices. . .

Ardeth was reading, with eyes gone wide and dark and a heart which had set up deep pounding down the road. Singing silence of the mountain afternoon about her, broken only by the scolding of the jays and the whirring insects. Now and then a jeweled flash as a bluejay swooped from a pine tree with a rush of wings.

Then sunshine and pines and the ribbon of road were receding to a great distance and the mountain stillness seemed to buzz with voices. . .

Ardeth found that she had gathered the precious sheets of paper close to her breast. She had started on a stumbling run to the cabin.

THE END.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Capital Punishment

THE Detroit Lakes, Minn., Tribune argues in favor of capital punishment and presents this statement of the case, as they see it: Return of capital punishment to Minnesota is sought in a bill now before the state legislature. Persons guilty of first degree murder in the state would be executed by hanging under the proposed measure. Capital punishment was abolished in Minnesota in 1911. Several attempts have been made since to restore it to the statutes, but all efforts have failed. The last move was made and defeated four years ago. It is rather difficult to understand why legislators should be so reluctant about a capital punishment bill. When a criminal murders a citizen in cold blood, he should pay for his crime with a death penalty. Criminals can now commit murder and know that the worst they can get is a life sentence, providing they are apprehended. Then, there is also the chance of parole after serving a number of years, and the possibility of escape from the prison walls. With a death sentence hanging over his head, a criminal will think a second time before he commits the extreme crime of taking a life. He values his own life just as highly as any respectable citizen, and will hesitate to sign his own death warrant. It is time for us to get hard-boiled in the matter of prosecution of criminals. We have become so lenient that lawbreakers and murderers are using the state as a rendezvous. The penalty should fit the crime, and therefore, no one who murders in cold blood is entitled to the retention of his own life.

License the Drivers

BOTH branches of the Minnesota legislature now have the bill requiring all drivers of automobiles to have licenses which can be taken away from them if they are reckless. And the legislature has very few measures more important than this—none, indeed, that relate to public safety, says the Duluth Herald. Very properly, the bill trusts little to examinations of applicants for licenses, and much to the effects of the threat of revocation that will hang over every careless driver. Everybody who is driving now will be given a license on application. But the bill provides that licenses shall be revoked for conviction of manslaughter resulting from operating a motor vehicle, for driving while drunk or under the influence of drugs, for making false affidavits in applying for licenses, for conviction of any crime reckoned a felony under motor regulation laws, for conviction of dangerous or reckless driving, or for failure to stop after an accident. Though these provisions may seem severe, they are none too severe. Nobody guilty of any of these offenses is fit to be trusted at a wheel. Anybody convicted of any of them should be taken away from the wheel, either permanently or for a period graded according to the gravity of the offense. If this bill is passed, there will be more careful driving in this state, and therefore fewer accidents.

Curtis M. Johnson Named Collector

CURTIS M. JOHNSON of Minneapolis, active in the Schall campaign and who visited Brainerd at that time, has been named collector of customs for the port of Duluth and Superior. Mr. Johnson was president of the state fair board and served as one of its members. In 1924 he was a candidate for the republican nomination for governor, running against Theodore Christianson. Originally from Rush City, where he was head of a hardware firm and also had one of the largest farms in the neighborhood, he was later in life insurance business in Duluth and took a great interest in civic matters there. About two years ago he left for Minneapolis. The appointment surprised Duluth which had pinned its hopes on a local man.

Why Go South for the Winter?

"WHY go south for the winter?" writes Miss Alma Niska to the Dispatch from Detroit, Michigan. "We were very much interested in seeing our 'old home town' carrying a front page item in the Detroit News, and it may interest you, so am enclosing the clipping." The clipping referred to a recent winter item about pansies growing in a backyard, lilac trees budding, girls playing tennis, boys shooting marbles, men pitching horseshoes. And after its publication it snowed in Brainerd.

Value of Enthusiasm

HENRY CHESTER has well said that "enthusiasm is the greatest asset in the world. It beats money and power and influence. Single handed, the enthusiast convinces and dominates where wealth accumulated by a small army of workers would scarcely raise the tremor of interest. "Enthusiasm tramples over prejudice and opposition, spurns inaction, storms the citadel for its object like an avalanche, overwhelms and engulfs all obstacles. It is nothing more or less than faith in action."

New Sales Tax Bill Before the Senate

A NEW form of a gross sales tax has been formulated in the bill of Senator R. T. Buckler of Crookston, introduced in the senate last week. It provides for a tax of two-tenths of one per cent on the gross sales of all retail stores doing a business of more than $60,000 a year. It follows the lines of an occupational tax, resembling in principle the tax on iron ore mining. AMERICA in general is pleased with the decision to abandon a proposed court martial of Major General Smedley D. Butler and to give him a reprimand instead. JAMES E. MARKHAM, deputy attorney general, has ruled that April 22 will be the last day of the present session of the Minnesota legislature.

GIRL UNAFRAID BY GLADYS JOHNSON

After the Storm Comes Sunshine. CHAPTER XLVIII.

HE took his hat and walked from the room without another glance at the woman watching him venomously from the divan. A relief—to be out in the sunshine and fresh air. He drew deep breaths as he plunged down the hills. A wearying business—and distasteful—this playing god-of-the-machine.

Something of the first fine edge of courage with which she had taken this headlong plunge deserted Ardeth after the first few days. Often in the weeks which followed she would find herself standing, her hand creeping to her throat in the old childish gesture of fright, her eyes large and dark. Once, when she was sweeping the pine needles from the porch of the brown road, the long files of pines standing motionless in the morning sunshine, overwhelmed her with a sudden sense of unfamiliarity.

Another time, she awoke in the middle of the night to hear the rain pouring on the cabin roof. She had been sleeping so soundly that for a moment she lost track of her surroundings; she fancied herself back in the flat with the Harrisons. The window was in the wrong place. Surely there was no window there. . . . But must have moved the bed to a different position when she cleaned the room today. . . .

Reality

Through the open door she could hear Ken turn restlessly and the present rushed in with stabbing recollection. It was true. . . . no wild romantic dream after all. She was up here with Ken. . . . In such moments she could not whip up the proud defiance. Faintness passed like a cold wind through her. She smothered her face in the pillow and cried.

But in the morning—waking to the long shafts of sunshine quivering through the pines. . . . breathing deep of the tingling air, there was no room in her heart for fear or unhappiness. The dream still held her.

On Ken, as well, was dawning the sense of reality. It was the rat of worry gnawing his heart in secret. The realization of Ardeth's sacrifice rushed in on him at moments, making his heart leap. He wanted to shout in panic that she must go away—at once. A glorious, reckless thing to do! A dreadful, impossible, splendid thing—but she must go away for her own sake! Oh. . . . too late. Too late in the scornful eyes of the world.

He blamed himself bitterly and futilely as he lay awake in the dark. All very well to rant against narrow-minded critics, but now he delivered this girl he loved to their mercies. They would tear to pieces the impulsive generosity of her. They would search her sweet frankness for ignoble motives. Soiling the fineness of her as hot fingers can bruise delicate petals. . . .

When she appeared in the doorway of his room in the morning, a gay little greeting on her lips, his heart would ache in secret. Dressed in the plain aprons of pink or blue gingham which she had bought in the mountain store, her hair damp and combed into loose waves of dark gold, she looked like a good little girl freshly primed up for school.

He had hurt her. . . . he had hurt her. . . . the knowledge beat through his thoughts like a dolorous bell.

As Ken grew stronger the note of tenderness in their relationship deepened. For long hours now he sat on the porch in the morning sunshine or lay in the afternoon shadow of the cabin where the hill sloped away to a brown trout stream. Ardeth was always nearby, sewing or reading aloud from one of the books Tom faithfully sent up every week.

Ken was still thin, but there was a coat of tan now on his face and hands and the haggard look had left his eyes. He was very gay and bantering when he talked to her. They had adopted the laughingly belligerent pose of children who bashfully strive to conceal their true feelings.

Love Suppressed.

Ken never kissed her now. Once when their fingers met both drew sharply back as though the contact had burned. Ardeth was startled to a little nervous laugh. Her eyes fluttered up to the man's, fell away when she saw that he was watching her with eyes gone dead and intense.

The next moment they had themselves in hand. They were laughing at the antics of "Grumpy," the tame bluejay who had adopted them for the sake of the dinner crumbs. But there was a strained note to the laughter and in a moment the girl slipped away to the house on a pretext.

How long could they play the role? she was asking herself. How long—when she was so tinglingly aware of Ken in every drop of her blood? When his mere touch could rouse such shivering gladness in her heart?

She became rebellious and unhappy. She hated the murmur of the pines. They became the scandalous whispers of the women who had haunted the Smokerie in the old days. Futile, trivial women like Jeanette—like Maïda Duvant. . . . women half alive—poured into conventional molds. She raised her face to the sunshine and grimaced at them. Then she broke into startled laughter.

At Ken's questioning glance she exclaimed: "I'm growing foolish up here in the mountains, Ken. Pretty soon I'll be answering my own questions, like the old prospector who went by here the other day talking to himself."

But there was no answering smile in the man's eyes. He had guessed her thoughts.

One day, as she stooped to draw the collar of his robe closer about his throat when they moved to the afternoon shadow, the man's reserve broke. She was suddenly in his arms, her head against his breast, eyes looking almost fiercely into eyes.

"Where's it going to end, darling?" she spoke through set teeth. "What are we to do when I'm well and we leave here to defy the world? We'll go far away. We'll work together—we'll manage somehow."

The pretext of camaraderie dropped from them like a cloak. "I don't know, Ken," she whispered. "I've wondered. . . . "Now that the fat is in the fire—with us up here together," he said, and she could not even laugh at his unpoetical simile. She was suddenly the reckless, generous giver. "Others have done it—I mean real people—people who care enough to defy the world. We'll go far away. We'll work together—we'll manage somehow."

Happiness Earned.

"Ah, we've earned our happiness, dear!"

He held her face between his thin brown hands and regarded it a little sadly. A sweet, vital thing and tenderly colored. . . . easily hurt. . . . He shook his head. "Can't get away with it, honey. We're not the kind to go sneaking about the world. What a mess it is."

She drew away, trembling. Silence fell like a curtain between them. A curtain neither of them dared to lift.

Ardeth tried to think of trivial things—the sensible little tasks of every day which were small anchors, holding her safe. Prunes for breakfast to be set to soak. A list of things to buy from the store down the road. She must go down there—there would be mail waiting for them. It was the day for Tom's letter, for methodical Tom wrote twice a week regularly. Long, careful, rather solemn letters. . . .

A long legal-looking letter for Ken and a fat one from Tom for herself.

She read it as she walked back from the store along the brown dirt road. Singing silence of the mountain afternoon about her, broken only by the scolding of the jays and the whirring insects. Now and then a jeweled flash as a bluejay swooped from a pine tree with a rush of wings.

Then sunshine and pines and the ribbon of road were receding to a great distance and the mountain stillness seemed to buzz with voices. . . .

Ardeth was reading, with eyes gone wide and dark and a heart which had set up deep pounding for them. It was the day for Tom's letter, telling of the divorce suit which Cedie had so unexpectedly filed. Tom's letter—bringing release—making their world turn suddenly right. . . .

Ardeth found that she had gathered the precious sheets of paper close to her breast. She had started on a stumbling run to the cabin.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the highest medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Cashier Catches Cough

Feels Top Notch Again Same Afternoon

I am a cashier in a restaurant and have got to sit near the door where there is a continual draft. One morning I caught a terrible cold and cough. My boss went out and got some Smith Brothers' Syrup. I took it and that very afternoon I lost my cough completely. I didn't lose any time in my work. Believe me, Smith Brothers sure saved me some money there!—Anna Briscoe, 417 North Clark Street, Chicago, Ill.

WOMEN VOTERS TO HOLD 2 MEETINGS

Organization Interested in Many Bills
to be Presented at
This Session

BILL ON MARRIAGE LICENSES

Have Tried to Secure Five Day Waiting Period Between Application and Issuance

At the last board meeting of the League of Women Voters, it was decided to hold two meetings this month inasmuch as the bills in which this organization is interested and is actively sponsoring are liable to be brought before the legislature for action at any time.

For several sessions, the League of Women Voters and other organizations interested in social progress have tried to secure a five day waiting period between the application for a marriage license and its issuance. Nine of our most progressive states now require such a license because social workers and judges in divorce courts see, constantly, the sad results of hasty, ill-considered marriages. Miss Florence Monahan (state chairman of the Legal Status of Women committee of the League) says: "Long ago the church learned the advisability of notice to the general public, by parties intending to marry. This gave the opportunity for raising legal objections to the marriage, as well as preventing child marriages, bigamous marriages, and marriage of the unit. Many students of the divorce problem think the first remedy is to prevent ill-considered marriages."

The importance of this period of waiting will be stressed by a playlet which will be given by two of our most popular dramatic readers at a meeting to be held at the Ramsford hotel dining room on Monday, February 16, at 3 p. m. Other members will briefly give the historic background of marriage legislation and the proposed changes in the present law. This meeting will be under the auspices of the local Legal Status of Women committee with Mrs. Stewart Mills, chairman.

The second meeting will be held at the Ramsford hotel dining room on the very next day, February 17, but this will be a dinner meeting at 5:30 p. m. The reason for this early hour is because the basketball game with Little Falls will be played the same evening and, as this meeting concerns the Teachers' Adjusted Compensation bill (or the bill popularly known as Teachers' Pension) there will no doubt be many present who will wish to attend both the dinner and the basketball game.

It is hoped to make this meeting quite a festive occasion with attractive social, as well as educational features. Several have expressed their desire to bring guests. There will be one or two pieces of music and the hotel management will no doubt do its utmost to make its part of the program successful. There will be an after dinner speaker who has had years of experience in explaining difficult, obscure and controversial points. This meeting is sponsored by the Educational Committee of the League, with Miss Mary Walsh as chairman.

To both of these meetings, a general invitation is extended. Why join the League, some have said, when its meetings are all open to the public? For the same reason that you would join a church—because you believe in the work it is doing and wish to aid and abet it. If you believe that it is worthwhile to keep abreast of the times and thus make yourself a better and more intelligent citizen, the best way to express that belief is to pay the small membership fee of such an organization and enable it to function and keep you in touch with legislation in the state and nation.

Many of the memberships in this organization expire this month and all who wish to renew such memberships and all who would like to join are asked to bring their dues to either of these two meetings.

STATION STICKUP NETS BANDITS $30

Masked Man Forces Texaco Station
Operator to Lie on Floor
During Robbery

ACCOMPLICE IN CAR

Pair Fleed West on Oak Street After Holdup Sunday Night at
19th and Oak

A. L. Swanson, operator of the Texaco station at 19th and Oak streets, was robbed of $30 in cash last evening by a holdup man who forced him to lie on the floor, hand over money in his pocket and open the cash register.

The holdup was executed while an accomplice remained at the wheel of a Ford tudor sedan of green color. Swanson informed police a masked man entered the station about 7 p. m. He had a gun in his hand. Ordering Swanson to lie on the floor after he forced him to open the cash register the bandit took what money the victim had in his pockets then hurriedly grabbed the money in the cash register. The two fled west on Oak street in the car. The bandit left $8 in the register.

Swanson was unable to get a good description of the man, he said. The bandit was about 30 years old, wore a light cap and was without an overcoat, according to the information given police.

SCHOOL DISTRICT NO 3 P. T. A.

Record Breaking Crowd in Attendance on Friday Evening

The P. T. A. of school district No. 3 had a record breaking crowd and a good time at the school house Friday evening, February 6.

At the business session it was decided to purchase an oil stove for the use of the school and future P. T. A. meetings; also that the next meeting be Dad's night, the men having entire charge of the evening's program and lunch.

The program committee then took charge and the following program was given:

Reading—Mrs. Richard Synhorst.
Songs—The Harmony Four.
Humorous and Swedish songs—Mr. Jernberg.

Several selections, old time fiddlers—Wm. Thompson, Rebt. Hele, Ludwig Nesheim and Iver Hagen.
I. Peterson gave a talk on organizations.

The lunch committee served lunch at the close of the program.

Tiler—William V. Turcotte.

Exalted Ruler G. S. Swanson commented on the excellent presentation of the ritual made by the Past Exalted Rulers. Comprehensive reports were made by various committees, the lodge deciding on the purchase of a piano.

At its conclusion, the social hour embraced these numbers: George Sweet in impersonations; John J. Cummins and Dr. A. K. Cohen in an egg rolling race which ended in a dead heat and broken eggs; C. C. Van Essen in mouth organ selections; William V. Turcotte in a review of war experiences in France; J. J. Nolan in address; John A. Hoffbauer in violin solo; Mr. Turcotte in a French song; both accompaniments played by Miss Lorraine Morrison; R. R. Gould in an address; community singing; history of exalted rulers of lodge by John J. Cummins.

The house and social committee served an excellent luncheon consisting of roast beef, brown gravy, rolls, salad and coffee.

COST ESTIMATED, $10,000

Commissioners Hear Request of Fair Board, $1,000 for Fair, $400, 4-H Club Work

A delegation from Cross Lake appeared before the County Board of Commissioners Saturday afternoon asking the construction of a concrete bridge 800 feet south of the government dam, the bridge to be 100 feet.

County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy estimated the cost of such a construction would be approximately $10,000. He was instructed to write the war department asking for consent to build if the commissioners so saw fit.

Representatives of the Crow Wing County Fair Association presented two requests, one for $1,000 to the fair and $400 to 4-H club work in connection with the fair. The requests were taken under advisement by the board.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars were permitted use of the farmers room of the court house two meetings a month. W. A. M. Johnstone, clerk of court, was named custodian of the court house and placed in personal charge of the county law library.

WOMEN VOTERS TO HOLD 2 MEETINGS

Organization Interested in Many Bills
to be Presented at
This Session

BILL ON MARRIAGE LICENSES

Have Tried to Secure Five Day Waiting Period Between Application and Issuance

At the last board meeting of the League of Women Voters, it was decided to hold two meetings this month inasmuch as the bills in which this organization is interested and is actively sponsoring are liable to be brought before the legislature for action at any time.

For several sessions, the League of Women Voters and other organizations interested in social progress have tried to secure a five day waiting period between the application for a marriage license and its issuance. Nine of our most progressive states now require such a license because social workers and judges in divorce courts see, constantly, the sad results of hasty, ill-considered marriages. Miss Florence Monahan (state chairman of the Legal Status of Women committee of the League) says: "Long ago the church learned the advisability of notice to the general public, by parties intending to marry. This gave the opportunity for raising legal objections to the marriage, as well as preventing child marriages, bigamous marriages, and marriage of the unfit. Many students of the divorce problem think the first remedy is to prevent ill-considered marriages."

The importance of this period of waiting will be stressed by a playlet which will be given by two of our most popular dramatic readers at a meeting to be held at the Ransford hotel dining room on Monday, February 16, at 3 p. m. Other members will, briefly, give the historic background of marriage legislation and the proposed changes in the present law. This meeting will be under the auspices of the local Legal Status of Women committee with Mrs. Stewart Mills, chairman.

The second meeting will be held at the Ransford hotel dining room on the very next day, February 17, but this will be a dinner meeting at 5:30 p. m. The reason for this early hour is because the basketball game with Little Falls will be played the same evening and, as this meeting concerns the Teachers' Adjusted Compensation bill (or the bill popularly known as Teachers' Pension) there will no doubt be many present who will wish to attend both the dinner and the basketball game.

It is hoped to make this meeting quite a festive occasion with attractive social, as well as educational features. Several have expressed their desire to bring guests. There will be one or two pieces of music and the hotel management will no doubt do its utmost to make its part of the program successful. There will be an after dinner speaker who has had years of experience in explaining difficult, obscure and controversial points. This meeting is sponsored by the Educational Committee of the League, with Miss Mary Walsh as chairman.

To both of these meetings, a general invitation is extended. Why join the League, some have said, when its meetings are all open to the public? For the same reason that you would join a church—because you believe in the work it is doing and wish to aid and abet it. If you believe that it is worthwhile to keep abreast of the times and thus make yourself a better and more intelligent citizen, the best way to express that belief is to pay the small membership fee of such an organization and enable it to function and keep you in touch with legislation in the state and nation.

Many of the memberships in this organization expire this month and all who wish to renew such memberships and all who would like to join are asked to bring their dues to either of these two meetings.

Fair Flee West on Oak Street After
Holdup Sunday Night at
19th and Oak

A. L. Swanson, operator of the Texaco station at 19th and Oak streets, was robbed of $30 in cash last evening by a holdup man who forced him to lie on the floor, hand over money in his pocket and open the cash register.

The holdup was executed while an accomplice remained at the wheel of a Ford tudor sedan of green color.

Swanson informed police a masked man entered the station about 7 p. m. He had a gun in his hand. Ordering Swanson to lie on the floor after he forced him to open the cash register the bandit took what money the victim had in his pockets then hurriedly grabbed the money in the cash register. The two fled west on Oak street in the car. The bandit left $8 in the register.

Swanson was unable to get a good description of the man, he said. The bandit was about 30 years old, wore a light cap and was without an overcoat, according to the information given police.

DYKEMAN WOMEN TO STUDY PLANTS

Topics Assigned to Club Members to Report on at Series of Meetings

The Women's Home Project club of Dykeman have taken up the study of horticulture in the series of three meetings. The first one which was held in the home of Will Phillips, the topic for study was strawberries. County Agent E. G. Roth lead the discussion and gave a lecture on the topic of strawberries. Bulletins and material were distributed among the members of the club for study, to be reported on at the next meeting which is to be held February 19 at the John Persson home at 2 o'clock, and the subject will be raspberries and blue fruits. The third meeting will be plums, cherries and apples. A fourth meeting will be held at which Professor W. G. Brierley of the Horticulture Department, University Farm St. Paul, Minn., will sum up the whole series of lectures.

The topics that were assigned to the various members of the Dykeman club are as follows:

Sites—Mrs. John Persson.
Soils—Mrs. T. G. Dykeman.
Planting—Mrs. Perry Persson.
Plant Selection—Mrs. C. F. Schellin.

Kinds of System—Mrs. Wm. Treichler.

Length of Bearing, Cultivation, first year—Mrs. Forest Dykeman.

Length of Bearing, Cultivation, second and third year—Mrs. Clayton Dykeman.

Disbudding and Renewal—Mrs. Lyle Wunderlich.

Mulching—Mrs. Elmer Hasbrook.

Harvesting—Mrs. Robert Smart.

Pests and Diseases—Mrs. Harold Brayton.

Varieties—Wm. Phillips.

Other clubs in the county who wish to take up this series of discussions on horticulture can do so by making an application to the county agent. This should be done soon, so that all this project work may be completed by the latter part of April when Professor Brierley will be here.

LARGE CROWD AT REVIVAL

Evangelist Zelma Argue in Stirring Messages Sunday at Full Gospel Assembly

(Contributed)
Evangelist Zelma Argue spoke to two capacity crowds at 3 p. m. and 8 p. m. at the Full Gospel Assembly yesterday. Every nook and corner of the building was filled, the younger boys and girls sitting on the altar rail and between the musicians on the platform.

The subject for the afternoon was "Trusting Through the Storm." In this the evangelist covered the life of Joseph telling how he was sold by his brethren into slavery, separated from his family, cast into a dungeon and forsaken by his last friend and yet he believed God through it all, and as a result became a governor in Egypt. The congregation was moved to tears at different times during this message.

The evening service was another glorious revival service at the close of which numbers came to the altar for salvation, about 12 in all during the day.

Tonight the subject will be "Inward, Onward and Upward." Rev. and Mrs. Rolfe from Eagle Bend are expected to be present at this service and perhaps Rev. and Mrs. Henry H. Ness from Fargo, N. D.

A large orchestra plays at every service.

AT RELIGIOUS COUNCIL

Rev. N. P. Olmsted Attended Meeting Under Auspices Minnesota Council Religious Education

Rev. N. P. Olmsted has returned from St. Paul where he attended the fifth annual mid-winter meeting under the auspices of the Minnesota Council of Religious Education last week. One day and part of the second day were given over to the discussion of plans for the work of the County Councils of Religious Education. Rev. Olmsted is a member of the executive committee.

Plans for the Minnesota summer school of religious education were announced for June 17 to 26 at Macalester college. A strong faculty will be in charge and a variety of courses will be offered.

OH THESE WOMEN!

By
LEOLA ALLARD

Copyright 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

In these hard times, it might be some amusement to the women who write me happy letters of how they get along with a husband and from two to four children on $40 a week, to hear of a silly blonde I talked with a few nights ago. The lady said she "absolutely refused an allowance of $50 a week" from her husband, who besides the $50, bought all her clothes, hats, shoes and whatnots. She had only lunches and cab to pay for. And with what an injured expression she told it.

She said a friend of hers had told her it was a very great mistake to "let a man get away with anything like that." She ought to get $100 a week. She should go home and demand it.

She did, but she didn't get it. She got $50.

"I don't think," she said, "that he cares for me the way he used to."

It's just no fun at all to give money to a woman who thinks she should have twice as much as she gets. The element of surprise is entirely eliminated. Give her a diamond pin and she wonders why it isn't a bracelet and pin. Give her a car and she wonders why it didn't have silver fittings. If you kicked her, she would, no doubt wonder why you didn't wear rubber heels.

She told, incidentally, of another woman who owned a big business in New York, and who recently sold it. "Her husband," she told me, "lost all his money, or almost all. She used to have five servants and now she has only one."

Imagine a beast like that. Only one servant!

She said they were not getting along very well, and she thought they might be divorced later.

She spoke of another couple she knew. "They were on the verge," she told me, in Winchelsea.

"Well," I asked maliciously, "would it be harder on her than on him if they got divorced?"

"Much," she told me. "Oh very much! You see, she used to work in his office and hadn't anything, and then she married him she has bought her clothes at the swell places and said $50 for her hats, and it would be terrible."

Not a word about missing him, or his love, or wishing he loved her, or anything that had to do with hearts and souls. Just, cold hard cash!

But there is a balm in this morning. There are about fifty letters from women who want to help the one who couldn't live on her husband's income of $35 a week. They are telling her how to do it advantageously. Marvelous letters, they are, and in them the kind of thing that makes you believe that there are still fairies and a Santa Claus and real love and that cupid just got a little bit neglected but is still on the job and doing well real business.

It is from women like these, whose ambitions are to have a happy home and a happy family that you get the inspiration to wade through life's disappointments. They are the founders of good homes and good homes are the foundation for a great, civilized, happy country. They don't know how important they are, or how inspiring.

DADS' ROUNDUP AT WHITTIER P. T. A.

Fathers Will Take Charge and Carry on Business of Association

COUNTY NURSE WALZ INSPECTING SCHOOLS

The narrative report for January of Miss Caroline Walz, county nurse, follows:

Preventative—Numerous duties constantly interfere with the school work. Inspection was completed in eleven schools and begun in the Riverton and Pequot schools. Twelve health talks were given to the children. At one school about thirty parents were present. A civic club composed of the older pupils splendidly conducted the business meeting. A very fine program had been prepared by the entertainment committee.

Eleven homes were visited. Fifty-eight visits were made.

Clinics—Two tuberculosis clinics were held. Twenty-six people were examined.

Educational—Health literature was distributed.

A very interesting meeting with the Sub-Advisory Board of District No. 1 was attended.

The records on the National Survey on the Cost of Medical Care were completed and sent to Washington, D. C.

Remedial—A boy was returned from the Gillette State Hospital and a fifteen-year-old girl with an osteomyelitis condition of the knee taken to the hospital.

A patient who had been cared for at the St. Joseph's Hospital was returned to her home.

A patient was accompanied to a doctor's office.

The kind assistance of a neighbor in bringing a patient to the doctor's office and local hospital was greatly appreciated. No one realizes what it means to a busy County Nurse to have some one "save the day" with that sort of help.

Administrative—meetings attended, 3; number of letters sent, 68; office interviews, including phone calls, 85; mileage, 1,672; hours on duty, 210 5-12.

He Only Turned on One

Light and So Alarmed Wife

Chicago, Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—Returning home earlier than usual and for no known reason turning on only one light instead of eight as usual, W. C. Allen so alarmed his wife that, without investigating, she ran to a neighbor's called police, and returned just in time to stop five officers from taking the protesting Allen to jail on charges of housebreaking.

Relief from Gas

Stomach Pains

Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. L. B. Simmons, of 1434 1/2 Larimer St., Denver, Colo., says: "Tanlac made me relish and digest my food fine. It also cured me of gas, dizzy spells and nervousness. Now I sleep well and can put in as good a day's work as a youngster."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

Forest Love

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Author of "Daphne," "The Secret Studio," "Stolen Love," etc.

"Love doesn't last"

Nancy's pouting, rose-red lips flung the rebellious words at Roger. Was she right? Follow the dangerous path she trod—how she recklessly spent her love on Jack Beamer, man-about-town... the tears and suffering she endured until she found out her own mistake. An enthralling serial of the California forests!

DYKEMAN WOMEN TO STUDY PLANTS

Topics Assigned to Club Members to Report on at Series of Meetings

The Women's Home Project club of Dykeman have taken up the study of horticulture in the series of three meetings. The first one which was held in the home of Will Phillips, the topic for study was strawberries. County Agent E. G. Roth lead the discussion and gave a lecture on the topic of strawberries. Bulletins and material were distributed among the members of the club for study, to be reported on at the next meeting which is to be held February 19 at the John Persson home at 2 o'clock, and the subject will be raspberries and bush fruits. The third meeting will be plums, cherries and apples. A fourth meeting will be held at which Professor W. G. Brierley of the Horticulture Department, University Farm, St. Paul, Minn., will sum up the whole series of lectures.

The topics that were assigned to the various members of the Dykeman club are as follows:

Sites—Mrs. John Persson.
Soils—Mrs. T. G. Dykeman.
Planting—Mrs. Perry Persson.
Plant Selection—Mrs. C. F. Schellin.
Kinds of System—Mrs. Wm. Treichler.
Length of Bearing, Cultivation, first year—Mrs. Forest Dykeman.
Length of Bearing, Cultivation, second and third year—Mrs. Clayton Dykeman.
Disbudding and Renewal—Mrs. Lyle Wunderlich.
Mulching—Mrs. Elmer Hasbrook.
Harvesting—Mrs. Robert Smart.
Pests and Diseases—Mrs. Harold Brayton.
Varieties—Wm. Phillips.
Other clubs in the county who wish to take up this series of discussions on horticulture can do so by making an application to the county agent. This should be done soon, so that all this project work may be completed by the latter part of April when Professor Brierley will be here.

LARGE CROWD AT REVIVAL

Evangelist Zelma Argue in Stirling Messages Sunday at Full Gospel Assembly

Evangelist Zelma Argue spoke to two capacity crowds at 3 p. m. and 8 p. m. at the Full Gospel Assembly yesterday. Every nook and corner of the building was filled, the younger boys and girls sitting on the altar rail and between the musicians on the platform.

The subject for the afternoon was "Trusting Through the Storm." In this the evangelist covered the life of Joseph telling how he was sold by his brethren into slavery, separated from his family, cast into a dungeon and forsaken by his last friend and yet he believed God through it all, and as a result became a governor in Egypt. The congregation was moved to tears at different times during this message.

The evening service was another glorious revival service at the close of which numbers came to the altar for salvation, about 12 in all during the day.

Tonight the subject will be "Inward, Onward and Upward." Rev. and Mrs. Rolfe from Eagle Bend are expected to be present at this service and perhaps Rev. and Mrs. Henry H. Ness from Fargo, N. D.

A large orchestra plays at every service.

AT RELIGIOUS COUNCIL

Rev. N. P. Olmsted Attended Meeting Under Auspices Minnesota Council Religious Education

Rev. N. P. Olmsted has returned from St. Paul where he attended the fifth annual mid-winter meeting under the auspices of the Minnesota Council of Religious Education last week. One day and part of the second day were given over to the discussion of plans for the work of the County Councils of Religious Education. Rev. Olmsted is a member of the executive committee.

Plans for the Minnesota summer school of religious education were announced for June 17 to 26 at Macalester college. A strong faculty will be in charge and a variety of courses will be offered.

BARACA CLUB AS HOSTS

Will Entertain Men's Club of First Baptist Church of St. Cloud This Evening

The Baraca club of the First Baptist church will be hosts to the members of the Men's club of the First Baptist church of St. Cloud at a dinner event in the social rooms of the church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. This affair is open to all of the men and young men of the church and congregation.

A program consisting of a community sing, piano solos by Louis Johnson, musical saw selections by H. W. Miller and violin solos by Arvid Anderson with special talks on "Playing the Game" by A. C. Carlson and Rev. H. F. Molnberg of St. Cloud, and Henry Graham, Elbert Whitlock, W. E. Lewis, Will Anderson, Geo. Tracy and Rev. Edgar A. Valiant.

Axel E. Gustafson, the president, will have charge of the business session.

GLENWOOD CITY, WIS., HAS A $20,000 FIRE

Glenwood City, Wis., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Officials today estimated at $20,000 the loss done by fire to the M. J. Karske elevator here. Sparks from the blaze, which started Sunday morning, endangered surrounding buildings but snow-covered roofs aided firemen and no additional fires were started.

OH THESE WOMEN!

By
LEOLA ALLARD

Copyright 1931, King Features
Syndicate, Inc.

In these hard times, it might be some amusement to the women who write me happy letters of how they get along with a husband and from two to four children on a week, to hear of a silly blonde I talked with a few nights ago. The lady said she "absolutely refused an allowance of $50 a week" from her husband, who besides the $50, bought all her clothes, hats, shoes and whatnots. She had only lunches and cabs to pay for. And with what an injured expression she told it.

She said a friend of hers had told her it was a very great mistake to let a man get away with anything like that. She ought to get $100 a week. She should go home and demand it.

She did, but she didn't get it. She got $50.
"I don't think," she said, "that he cares for me the way he used to." It's just no fun at all to give money to a woman who thinks she should have twice as much as she gets. The element of surprise is entirely eliminated. Give her a diamond pin and she wonders why it isn't a bracelet and pin. Give her a car and she wonders why it didn't have silver fittings. If you kicked her, she would, no doubt wonder why you didn't wear rubber heels.

She told, incidentally, of another woman who owned a big business in New York, and who recently sold it. "Her husband," she told me, "lost all his money, or almost all. She used to have five servants and now she has only one."

Imagine a beast like that. Only one servant!

She said they were not getting along very well, and she thought they might be divorced later.

She spoke of another couple she knew. "They were on the verge," she told me, in Winchelsea.

"Well," I asked maliciously, "would it be harder on her than on him if they got divorced?"

"Much," she told me, "Oh very much! You see, she used to work in his office and hadn't anything, and since she married him she has bought her clothes at the swell places and paid $50 for her hats, and it would be terrible."

Not a word about missing him, or his love, or wishing he loved her, or anything that had to do with hearts and souls. Just cold hard cash!

But there is a balm in this morning. There are about fifty letters from women who want to help the one who couldn't live on her husband's income of $35 a week. They are telling her how to do it advantageously. Marvellous letters, they are, and in them the kind of thing that makes you believe that there are still fairies and a Santa Claus and real love and that cupid just got a little bit neglected still is still on the job and doing well real business.

It is from women like these, whose ambitions are to have a happy home, and a happy family that you get the inspiration to wade through life's disappointments. They are the foundation for good homes and good homes are the foundation for a great, civilized, happy country. They don't know how important they are, or how inspiring.

DADS' ROUNDUP AT WHITTIER P. T. A.

Fathers Will Take Charge and Carry on Business of Association

The Whittier Parent Teachers Association holds its annual Dad's roundup on Tuesday evening at 8 p. m. at the school. On this occasion the fathers take charge and carry on the business of the association. The officers present for the evening are:

He Only Turned on One

Light and So Alarmed Wife

Chicago, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Returning home earlier than usual and for no known reason turning on only one light instead of eight as usual, W. C. Allen so alarmed his wife that, without investigating, she ran to a neighbor's called police, and returned just in time to stop five officers from taking the protesting Allen to jail on charges of housebreaking.

Relief from Gas

Stomach Pains

Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. L. B. Simmons, of 1434 1/2 Larimer St., Denver, Colo., says: "Tanlac made me relish and digest my food fine. It also cured me of gas, dizzy spells and nervousness. Now I sleep well and can put in as good a day's work as a youngster."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

Forest Love

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Author of "Daphne," "The Secret Studio," "Stolen Love," etc.

"Love doesn't last"

Nancy's pouting, rose-red lips flung the rebellious words at Roger. Was she right? Follow the dangerous path she trod—how she recklessly spent her love on Jack Beamer, man-about-town . . . the tears and suffering she endured until she found out her own mistake. An enthralling serial of the California forests!
